

Media diversity is a must

All of the current media ownership rules serve the public interest by limiting the market power of already huge companies in the broadcast industry.

The studies commissioned by the FCC do not accurately demonstrate the negative affects media deregulation and consolidation have had on media diversity.

Media ownership by only a few wealthy individuals or corporations will not work in the best interest of the people or the nation.

Thank you,

Judith Foster